

BARRY CALLEBAUT ROOF – GHANA

Barry Callebaut is the world's largest chocolate manufacturer.

It was created in 1996 through the merging of the Belgian chocolate producer Callebaut and the French company Cacao Barry. It is currently based in Zurich, Switzerland, and operates in 30 countries worldwide.

Its customers include multinational and national branded consumer goods manufacturers and artisanal users of chocolate (chocolatiers, pastry chefs, bakeries, and caterers).
